

“Thirsty Thursday” Happy Hour in Cardiff-by-the-Sea

By Shannon Finley

Lawyers Club’s Networking Events Committee (NEC) presented “Thirsty Thursday” happy hour at Wine Steals in Cardiff-by-the-Sea on January 14, was generously sponsored by O’Byrne Team. Kicking off the New Year, the event was perfect for anyone with a resolution to build new professional connections. The event, open to both members and non-members, encouraged all attendees to reconnect and expand their professional networks.

The Thirsty Thursday was enjoyed by new Lawyers Club attendees and long-time members alike.

Sara O’Connell, a new member, commented that the event was “a great opportunity to meet great people in a casual environment.”

Member Jennifer Suberlak, “loved the event. The venue had a great selection of drinks, I met interesting people, and it was conveniently located for us North County attorneys.”

Many North County Lawyers Club members discussed how refreshing it was to attend a networking event without fighting traffic or worrying about parking downtown.

Lawyers Club Director Danna Cotman enjoyed introducing a prospective member to other members, and having great conversations. Cotman remarked that, “attending the Thirsty Thursday event was a fun and great opportunity to meet Lawyers Club members that I hadn’t yet met, as well as chat further with ones I already knew to learn more about their practices so we can effectively refer appropriate clients to each other. The casual setting with wine and snacks was perfect for just this purpose.”

The NEC’s primary focus is planning networking events throughout San Diego County, with the goal of assisting members in developing meaningful connections with other professionals. “Thirsty Thursday” happy hours are signature NEC events, and are held regularly. These happy hours are a great opportunity to meet new people, build a professional network, and reconnect with friends and colleagues.
